

May 09, 2010

Dear Nie,

It was clear to me that you would one day make a great Mom when I saw how good you were with your nieces. How you taught them and played with them, it showed you cared. Now finally B is with us and it was proven that you are a great Mom. It started the day when B was born. You were so in control and composed throughout the labor that many women would envy you. Such strength and stamina, I really am so very proud of you.

You love her so very much and you can see it in the way you handle her and take care of her. The way you make plans for her when she grows older. How you encourage her in doing little things. The way you get so excited and proud when she has done something new, even as simple as reaching out for a toy. How you can feel her pains, it really shows the connection you have with her.

You are meant to be a Mom and it really completes you as a person. I can't wait to experience all this when she grows older and see you develop yourself into the best friend our daughter could ever have. I could say I hope that that happens, but I know it will. You two already have such an amazing mother daughter bond and it will only grow stronger with time.

Love,

Michael & Maya